

PDA DEVELOPERS

The magazine for developers creating PDA products.

PDA DEVELOPERS is a bimonthly magazine designed to bring you the most useful, up-to-date PDA-development information available. Now in our third year, we cover all programmable PDAs, such as those based on Newton, GEOS, Magic Cap, and Pilot platforms, and those manufactured by Apple, Psion, Hewlett Packard, and others. No other magazine provides you with the information you need to stay on top of this rapidly changing industry. Each issue typically includes:

- News and Product Announcements, including hardware, software, and technologies.
- Columnists, like Andy Seybold on wireless, Pat Megowan on IrDA, and John Schettino on NS BASIC.
- Previews and Reviews, with detailed evaluations of hardware, developer tools, utilities, and platforms.
- Getting Started articles for programmers learning about a new PDA or for beginning programmers.
- Features, where developers explain complete source code applications in detail, or describe how to use a particular language, platform, OS capability, or communications technology.

In addition, we are pleased to offer the PDA DEVELOPERS source code disk subscription. Each disk issue includes the text of each article, source code for all of the programs discussed in the issue, and lots of useful software goodies from various electronic sources. For less than the price of a single download per issue you get PDA DEVELOPERS and much more on disk in either Mac or Windows format. One disk can save you hours of work.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE! IF YOU'RE NOT 100% SATISFIED, WE'LL REFUND THE UNUSED PORTION OF YOUR SUBSCRIPTION.
